We report a case of coronary collaterals developed after the treatment of diffuse stenosis in the left main stem using one drug-eluting stent. The patient underwent percutaneous coronary intervention (PCI) for chronic total occlusion (CTO) in the mid portion of the left anterior descending coronary artery (LAD) and was treated with a bare-metal stent (BMS). The LAD lesion showed diffuse stenosis.

CTO of the left circumflex coronary artery was also detected, and percutaneous coronary intervention (PCI) was performed. During follow-up after the PCI, the patient presented with dyspnea on exertion. Coronary angiography showed stent fracture (SF) of the BMS in the mid portion of the LAD and in the previous stent of the circumflex coronary artery. A patent left internal mammary artery graft did not show any stenosis. SF is a phenomenon in which the fracture occurs in a stent implanted in a previous stent; it is not rarely seen in coronary stents because of stent fracture and/or polymer degradation. However, coronary collaterals have rarely been reported. We herein report our experience with a case of left main-type stenosis, in which SF developed after the percutaneous treatment of diffuse coronary stenosis.

Q: Recognize Misspelled/Typo Words In Textbox When you submit a form if an incorrect word is entered into a textbox it produces an error message. I am wondering if there is a way to change an errors message to display say typos or misspelled words. I need to set this up on a site I am building. Thanks!

A: There are libraries for this. Wufoo, is one; you can also do this with plain vanilla JS; for example: `onBlur:function(){ if(document.getElementById('inputFieldID').value.length === 0){ //if input is empty, give a message`
